

Strong Teamwork Habits

In school, at work, and in life, the habits we bring can make a team stronger or weaker.

By the end of this lesson, you will know what makes an effective team member and how you can contribute positively to group work.

- 1 In your groups, discuss a time when teamwork went well and a time when it did not.

- 2 Add your ideas to the Padlet by listing positive and negative qualities of a team member.

- 3 As a class, decide which three qualities are most important for being a productive team member.

Now you know what makes a strong team member. Use these qualities to make your future teamwork even better!
